GREAT NEWS!

The joint prayer services between Enniskerry parish and Powerscourt parish are back!

They will continue to be held monthly on the first Wednesday of each month. The first one will be on Wednesday 7th of June in St Patrick's church at 10 am.

Coffee in the distillery afterwards, of course!

The humble cuppa.

Have you ever noticed in life how it is the little things that actually become the big things?

It is widely accepted that here in Ireland we drink a lot of tea. This is especially true of people of a certain age...myself very much included! But it is not really about quenching thirst, is it?

It is about coming together, as a family, as a few friends, as an icebreaker, as a welcome, to chat, to share, to discuss, to agree or even to disagree. It isn't even about drinking the tea, (I rarely finish mine) it is about time, spent together, and guess what? We take it all for granted.

At this moment, there are many who would love to turn the clocks back to a time when people sat on all the seats in the kitchen, or put the kettle on, or helped with the washing up. Families move on or pass on, and that is the natural order of things. For those people, time is NOT a great healer. Around our own happy, loud, noisy homes are people drinking solitary cups of tea, alone with their memories.

This week my sister and I paid a long overdue visit to an Auntie we hadn't seen in ages. On our way home we both agreed that we wouldn't leave it as long the next time. We both meant that sincerely, but as we also know, sometimes life gets in the way.

This is the very reason why we in St Mochonog's have a cuppa in the Church, after our 2 precious 10am Masses on Wednesdays and Sundays. We meet, we smile, we chat, we moan and put the world to right, and sometimes we drink tea.

ALL are welcome,

Anne

ATTENTION

The mural for the family friendly space at the back of the church will be blessed at our next Meet and Greet mass on the 4th of June. Please come along to celebrate with the artist. Thank you so much Doreen for giving your time and talent to the parish community.

The joint prayer services between Enniskerry and Powerscourt are back. You can read more about that in the parish link.

Two members of our new funeral ministry team will be commissioned at our next mass on the 4th of June. Please come and give them your support if you can.

We are still in need of help with catering for our meet and greet masses. Please speak to Phil or Tim after mass if you feel you would like to be part of the team.
